

Brent Chicken
Fox Rothschild LLP

Brent Chicken is a partner with Fox Rothschild LLP, and focuses his practice on energy and natural resources matters. Mr. Chicken is licensed to practice law in Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota and Utah, and handles a variety of upstream and midstream matters involving title, regulatory/administrative, transactional and litigation concerns. Brent routinely handles acquisition and divestiture transactions for his clients involving state, fee, federal and tribal lands, often accompanied by contemporaneous joint operating, farmin, farmout and other similar agreements governing the rights and obligations between operators and non-operators. Mr. Chicken is also experienced in dealing with the specifics of such transactions in a litigation and arbitration context, involving matters ranging from disputes between the transaction parties as to purchase and sale agreement warranty, representation and other breaches, to issues affecting third parties tangentially involved in such transactions. In addition to his energy law practice, Mr. Chicken is also a Special Institutes Committee member with the Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation; an active member of and newsletter contributor/editor for the Denver Association of Petroleum Landmen; a member and former officer of the Denver Association of Oil & Gas Title Lawyers; and a student mentor/oral argument judge for the University of Denver, Sturm College of Law. Brent is also a married father of two who enjoys spending time with his family and dogs, and pursuing home improvement, outdoor and shooting sports activities.
